

Forum for Disability

Are you an occupational therapist with a disability who would like to share your experiences with other disabled OT's and students?

The Forum for Disability is a national support network for occupational therapists, support workers, students and potential students with disabilities, who wish to share their own experiences and/or seek advice from others.

If you would like to talk about employment issues, hidden disabilities, access to work schemes log on to COT's website and post a message on the forum:
